President's Corner

Did you know that the Dodge Brothers built parts for the first 500,000 Ford Model T cars?

The Dodge Brothers built the first automobile with their name on it in 1914 as a 1915 model. Previously the brothers had built all the mechanical parts for the first 500,000 Ford Model T cars. The Dodge Brothers were well known and Highly respected in the automotive industry because of the work they had done for Ford.

How many notches are on the Spark advance/retard lever, of the Model A Ford, if they are not worn off? There are 11 and if your car is timed correctly, each notch would represent 5 miles per hour when used with the standard rear end and engine.

There is a new website link – www.modelbasics.com that has detailed technical descriptions of major functions of the Model A. Some of the functions are animated. It is a very good website and I recommend you take some time to check it out.

From last month's "What is it?"

EMERGENCY BRAKE LEVER EXTENSIONS

The emergency brake lever for the early 1928 Model A Ford is located on the left hand side of the car whereas on the late 1928 and early 29 Model A Fords it was located in the center of the front floorboard, forward of the transmission gearshift lever. A squeeze grip is used to release the brake. In late 1929, Ford moved the emergency brake lever to the right side of the gearshift lever and redesigned it with a push button release. Releasing the emergency brake lever in a 1930-31 Model A Ford can require a long stretch of the driver's arm.

Several aftermarket parts manufacturers provided an extension to ease the setting and release of the emergency brake. The extension fits over the top of the emergency brake lever and is used to depress the button on top of the emergency brake lever. The driver can then engage or disengage the emergency brake with the extension. The emergency brake lever extensions were apparently popular with women drivers, for whom much of the advertising for the accessory was directed.

The photo above shows various styles of emergency brake lever extensions manufactured for the Model A Ford. Seen in the photograph are the Wells extension, the Motolever, and various designs of extensions built by Fulton.

Original emergency brake lever extensions are often difficult to find, but occasionally can be found at swap meets. Emergency brake extensions for the Model A Ford, especially the ones manufactured by Fulton and Motolever usually bring a good price.

The advertisement below shows the installation of the Motolever by Motometer extension on the Model A Ford emergency brake handle.

This Month's "What is it"?

We hope to see all of you out "GOING PLACES" on our tours.

In the Rearview Mirror

A report from the 2015 MARC Membership Meet at Juliet, IL.

Hosted by the Joliet Region Model 'A' Restorer's Club. They really did a fantastic job on entertaining us. We had 5 Model A's from Columbus and Bloomington clubs drive up.

Those who drove up were,

Phil Sutton with passenger Larry Morlock, Ed and Mary Dathe, Tim Ellis with passenger Rex Hinkle, Don and Ellen McGlothlin, and Ronnie and Susan Lawson. There were over 50 Model A's that drove to the meet. We also met our friends from Mid Hoosiers Club, Tim and Frieda Howell, and Norman and Priscilla Winkler there. The festivities officially begin on Thursday evening with a dinner and tour of the magnificent Rialto Square Theatre. The evening ended with a "silent" Laurel & Hardy film accompanied by the Barton Grand Pipe Organ. Special parking for the Model A's was right on the street in front of the theater.

Friday morning, while the national committees were meeting, we had a "hands on" brake adjusting seminar, and a "GAZ" (Russian Model "A") and "AA" seminar. In the afternoon, Jordon Beller opened his museum to us to view cars, parts, literature, era speed equipment, and much more. Outside of the building, there is the largest collection of AA chassis on the planet. Back by popular demand for the ladies during the day was the "MARC Mini Mall". We ended the day with the welcome party which features an all you can eat pizza, pasta, and salad buffet. The entertainment at the end of the meal was "Name That Tune" quiz show.

Saturday morning begins with two JSC seminars. The General Membership Meeting was early in the afternoon. The evening banquet was enjoyable with era music playing softly in the background. Rex Hinkle from the Bloomington Club sang "O Canada", Mr. Ed received a plaque for 11 years of service on the Judging Standards committee, and Ronnie and Susan Lawson received a case of oil for driving the furthers away, 280 miles.

The icing on the cake was the Sunday morning indoor swap meet, then back home to Indiana.
